Don't get yourself in a tangle, avoid the mess with these cool wireless devices.

1. APPLE IPAD 2

What's not to love about this baby? Apple's second iteration of the iPad is thinner, faster and lighter. Back is its intuitive multi-touch display. Plus it now boasts front and rear cameras, as well as a faster dual-core A5 chip. It comes with iOS 4.3, offering a suite of important new features and improvements. Then there's the iPad Smart Cover, which puts your gadget on sleep mode and wakes it up when you open the flap. It also forms a stand for typing.

2. VEHO VSS-006 360 BLUETOOTH SPEAKER

This pint-sized marvel simply blew us away. It looks certainly deceive, for it delivers big sound; music streamed through the speaker has crisp treble and rich bass. The VSS-006 is compatible with all wireless Bluetooth devices. For non-Bluetooth tools, there's a line-in port and cable. Power comes from a built-in lithium-ion rechargeable battery that's good for four hours of continuous playback. Ideal for travel, it stows away easily and has a signal range of up to 15m.

3. CREATIVE WP-250 HEADPHONES

This affordable set is lightweight, yet delivers great sound quality. Designed to stream high-quality music and voice calls from your smartphone, they work just as well with your iPod or any Bluetooth device. The in-ear buds and behind-the-neck design are perfect for listening to music during a run. Its "invisible microphone" with noise suppression allows for clear audio even when there's a din in the background.

4. VEHO MIMI 002 WIRELESS KEYBOARD AND AIR MOUSE

This one's a curiosity but tech geeks will love it. Combining both an 80-key mini-keyboard and a wireless mouse, the Veho Mimi 002 lets you play PC games and type e-mails wirelessly. Those with fat fingers might beg to differ – the tiny keys need getting used to, and fast typing requires some dexterity. Nonetheless, it features a full Qwerty keyboard and 3-D motion sensor – all in a package that fits into your hands. Set up is a breeze – no driver or software is needed. Just plug the bundled dongle into your computer and you're all set to go.

5. CISCO LINKSYS E4200 WIRELESS ROUTER

This gadget is a good looker: It won the Red Dot Design award 2011. The E4200 offers true dual-band (2.4 and 5 GHz) transfer speed of up to 450Mbps for seamless streaming of highdefinition video, music and gaming wirelessly around the house. The additional bandwidth is handy for reducing interference and maximising throughput. It works great with the latest entertainment devices like Internet TVs, iPads and game consoles. Setting it up is easy, too. Our only grouse: The hefty power adapter.
