

GADGETS FOR EVERY BUDGET

UP TO £50

2 Veho Mimi Wi-Fi speaker

Plug the Veho Mimi's supplied dongle into your PC and it will transmit audio to the Mimi, free of interference or excessive signal loss. The dongle has a range of 40m and there's no limit to the number of speakers you can clutterlessly pair. £45, WWW.VEHO-UK.COM

3 Griffin AirCurve

The iPod Touch and the iPhone are two of the biggest success stories in the gadget world but their tinny speakers leave rather a lot to be desired. The AirCurve fixes the sonic issue by running the sound through its natty coiled horn, rendering tunes a big ten decibels louder than your iPod/Phone. £18, GRIFFINTECHNOLOGY.COM

4 Archos 2 8GB MP3 player

Slim, stylish and user-friendly, the Archos 2 MP3 player packs in 8GB of video, music and pictures, as well as an FM radio. Available in black, white and purple, it shows off Archos' high-toned PMP-making talents at a very reasonable price. £40, WWW.AMP3.CO.UK

5 Busbi digital video camera

One of the cheapest video cameras on the market, the tiny Busbi saves footage shot in AVI format to the included 1GB SD card – 2GB cards can also be used. Up to 70 mins of footage can be shot at 30fps, then played back on the punchy, two-inch screen. £40, WWW.FIREBOX.COM

6 Digital photo frame

With a seven-inch LCD display capable of supporting photos up to 12 megapixels, this frame has four sizing options, a resolution of 480x234 pixels, a contrast ratio of 300:1, aspect ratio of 16:9 and is compatible with SD cards up to 2GB. Textbook viewing. £50, WWW.FIREBOX.COM

7 Plantronics Voyager 520

The best Bluetooth headset you'll find for under 50 notes, the 520 comes with noise-cancelling and wind noise reduction, has talk time of eight hours – 180 hours on standby – and can be paired with two phones. It weighs a frugal 16g, too. £40, WWW.MAPLIN.CO.UK

8 Polaroid PoGo

The Polaroid revival starts here. Send your pics to this instant printer via Bluetooth or a USB lead and watch as your images are churned out on 2x3-inch photos in under 60 seconds. Powered by a built-in lithium-ion battery, it holds ten sheets of photo paper at a time. £40, WWW.FIREBOX.COM
